

Dear readers,

UPA Strategic Affairs continues to develop despite having a small team of editors and referees. We are now indexed in some major international indexes including DRJI, CiteFactor, and Index Copernicus in addition to some Turkish indexes. We will continue to develop and struggle for creating a new and dynamic international academic platform focusing on Political Science and International Relations studies related to Turkey.

Our new issue (September 2022) offers 7 original scientific articles. These pieces are written by young and skilled academics. Despite economic and political difficulties Turkey feels, we will continue to provide a solid scientific platform for young academic and researchers.

Please enjoy our new issue.
